northmodern Review

August 18-20 2016, Copenhagen, Denmark

Dutch Exhibitor Ribbons
Studio Truly Truly

In efforts to boost Dutch design exports, northmodern worked with the Dutch embassy and curator of the show's Dutch collection Signe Nørgaard to highlight the Dutch exhibitors throughout the fair. Together they commissioned Studio Truly Truly to devise an interesting signifier that could double as a way-finding system during the show. Aware that anything too eye-catching would draw attention away from the exhibitor's stands, Studio Truly Truly were inspired by the way people pin a small ribbon to their shirt as a way to show support for a cause. They used the idea of a ribbon that could be positioned just outside each exhibitor's space. The result is a hanging light sculpture composed of curled ribbons of mesh covered in a repeating pattern of the words 'dutch exhibitor'.

The Big Bubble
Alex de Witte

Every Big Bubble is unique and mouth blown in the Czech Republic, with the glass blowers twisting their skills further each time until the bubble almost collapses. They are initially available in three different sizes; a premature safe mini bubble, a confident medium bubble, and an extreme big bubble.

Chlorophilia
Artemide

Chlorophilia is a new project by Ross Lovegrove showing his signature approach to organic and fluid forms. It is highly scenic with a light suspension appliance, which when switched on unveils a contrast of delicate shades interacting with space to complete it. The central body emits indirect light, filtered by three clear surfaces.

Volta T
Estiluz

Volta T is a suspension lamp with a curved black metallic body, cylindrical aluminium heads and acrylic lens diffusers, all suspended by transparent nylon cables. Volta T is customisable with adjustable height and users can create their own design combining two models to suit their space.
